

Giulia Paola Di Nicola

Translation of Irene Jovaras

Much more than “Our Lady”

Unfinished revolution

INDEX

(Foreword)

Chapter I: The Beloved

Mum and Dad

"Fixed goal of an eternal design".

The Jews were waiting for a male

"Always a virgin"

Choose or be chosen

The theologian's challenge

The "Madness of love"

Interdisciplinary Insights: I

It's Love that generates

Eros and agape

A "non-gynecocentric" "virginity"

Called together to love

Pure and impure

Woman versus mother

To each his own vocation

Chapter II: God 'begs' for consent

"You have prepared a body for me"

Daring for a yes

Two natures united in the womb

Servant/queen

Laity and priesthood in the Son of Mary

"Leave it for now"

The body of Mary in the body of Christ

"Virgo sacerdos"

"Marian Priesthood"

Interdisciplinary Insights: II

- A. Anthropological notes
 - From myths to reality. "You will be Gods"*
 - The yeses that decide life*
 - Consenting to pregnancy*
 - Motherhood, a metaphor for life*
 - Parenthood and fecundity*
 - Identity orientations and disorientations*
- B. Ecclesiological notes
 - "...and He left the temple"*
 - "I wish they were all prophets!"*
 - About the Reformation*
 - "Sensus fidelium"*

Chapter III: the newly born Church

Zaccharia, from a just man to a Christian
Elisabeth, the first to be destined for the kingdom
The secret "summit"
The song of liberation
The kingdom for the little ones
The early Church

Interdisciplinary Insights : III

Family hospitality
Home-Temple
Entering though "closed doors"
Mercy and trade
The many works of Grace
Implicit forms of faith

Chapter IV: With Joseph, in the family

Why the genealogy of Joseph?
The glorious second place
A step backwards
Bringing up the Son of God
Family life
Rooted in time

Interdisciplinary insights IV

Dynasty and surnames

The turning point of male chauvinism

Which family?

An evolving Christianity

To conclude and go ahead

To those who hunger and thirst for justice",

To women who have given their lives for their loved ones,

To those who love Mary

To those who ignore and refute her even though they are loved by her.

«The growing good of the world is partly dependent on acts ignored by history; and if things are not as bad for you and for me as they could have been, it is partly due to the number of people who faithfully lived a hidden life, and rest in forgotten graves»¹.

G. Eliot, Middlemarch

¹ G.Eliot, Middlemarch

